Which is the best combat game for android? 2.This project is to continue the identification, molecular cloning, and expression of the ras gene family and the genes' products. This work will focus on one particular biological property: the ability of ras to transform cells. We are currently trying to clone the sequences of the ras genes and their products, and to investigate the role of the ras gene product(s) in transforming cells. We hope to gain information concerning the structure, function, and control of this particular cell growth pathway, and to use these observations to develop new approaches to clinical oncology. The recent identification of the c-ras oncogene has stimulated intense interest in molecular mechanisms of oncogenesis. The hope is that some of these mechanisms can be directly applied to the treatment of human cancer. We are utilizing the c-ras gene to develop systems for probing cellular functions which are involved in carcinogenesis. For example, we have found that some chemical carcinogens induce the transient transformation of cultured rat fibroblasts. We plan to study the relationship between this phenomenon and the induction of ras gene transcription. Other studies are being conducted in an attempt to elucidate the biochemical functions of the ras gene product(s). These include the ability of ras to bind to some cellular components, the nature of that binding, and the effect of the ras gene product on the assembly of the cellular components. ras protein structure will be probed by (1) identifying the sites of phosphorylation in ras proteins, and (2) locating antigenic determinants on the ras proteins.In pictures: Canopy Growth ownership revealed Canopy Growth Corp was bought out by one of the largest US-based growers. The company, based in Smiths Falls, Ont., has a capitalized value of $14 billion. It is owned by Mettrum Health Corp., based in Airdrie, Alta., and a holding company called AusCann Capital Holdings, based in Richmond, B.C. The move has sparked questions from some investors, who feel that the company's products are no longer in demand. "Maybe we've had a bit of a bumpy ride but I think our business has been undervalued for a while," said CEO Mark Zekulin, according to the Financial Post. During Canopy Growth's 2015 annual
